

I strongly oppose LightSquared's plans to operate frequencies close to those used by GPS. This is preposterous. GPS is the most advanced and essential technologies to aid pilots and help to keep them safe. It is absolutely idiotic for the FAA to seriously consider or allow 40,000 cell phone towers to be erected that may cause aircraft pilots to lose navigation at any time en route or upon landing. This plan could pose unnecessary hazards to pilots and civilians should these towers be allowed. Please oppose LightSquared's plans.
